The research scholarship awarded in cooperation by the Cultural Foundation of the Free State of Thuringia, the Friends of the Gotha Research Library e.V., the Gotha Research Center, and the Literary Society of Thuringia e.V. It is aimed at authors of all literary genres (novel, poetry, drama, etc.) who would like to engage with the collections at the Gotha Research Library during the research phase of their literary projects.

The Gotha Research Library at Friedenstein Castle is one of the most important historical libraries in the German-speaking countries. It is part of the collections of the Ducal House of Saxe-Gotha-Altenburg, which existed from 1640 to 1825, and the collections of the Ducal House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, which were gathered in Gotha between 1826 and 1945. Together with the museum collections, the secret archive, the ducal museum, and former chambers, as well as the park landscape, the collection, building, and garden form an ensemble of European rank.

The Gotha Research Library preserves more than 700,000 printed works, including about 350,000 prints from the 16th to the 19th century. Additionally, there are approximately 11,500 manuscripts. The core of the collection, which was oriented universally until about 1850, is the outstanding collection of manuscripts, autographs, and bequests on the cultural history of Protestantism in the early modern period. The collection of about 3,500 oriental manuscripts is one of the largest of its kind in Germany. The Perthes Collection includes unique source material on the development of cartography and geography in the 19th and 20th centuries. The library also preserves a considerable collection of letters from Germans emigrants to America during the 19th and early 20th centuries. The rich selection of travel literature, the literary estate of the science fiction author Kurd Laßwitz, and the substantial research material from Gotha on the Order of the Illuminati are also well suited for literary discoveries. In addition to current literature from the research library, users can access more than one million monographs and journals as well as databases and electronic media from the University Library Erfurt in Gotha.
